

Discovery tagging card

Keep this open while you work. The reasoning behind all of it is in discovery-admin-guide.md — read that once, then work from here.

DO IT IN THIS ORDER

01 Seed topics Topics & synonyms. A first list, not a final one.	02 Tag a sample ~30 items across formats. Run real searches. Fix the list.	03 Tag guides & courses Library Editor, Course Builder. All 27.	04 Tag resources Assign topics. Bulk for real groups, rows for the rest.	05 Approve browse Homepage browse. This switches algorithmic recommendations on.	06 Answer standalone As you go, while the guide is open.	07 Re-check Fix a search. Look at a real member's recommendations.

HOW TO FILL EACH FIELD

TOPIC

2-4 per item

■ Tag what it is about, not what it mentions.

■ Reuse an existing topic before making a new one.

Before using: would a member want a shelf of everything we have about this?

Before creating: will I use this on five or more things?

GOOD LOOKS LIKE

Energy Leaks → time management · delegation · mindset

Ep 95 - Price Drop Workshop → price reductions · listing presentation

WATCH

A word can be in the title and still be a bad topic. Order Your Stanchions is not about stanchions.

SYNONYM

applies catalogue-wide

■ Add for misspellings members keep making, and for abbreviations.

■ Skip plurals and word forms — search already handles those.

■ Use it when the word suits everything under that topic.

GOOD LOOKS LIKE

refferal → referral

p&l, pnl → profit and loss

listing appointment → listing presentation

WATCH

You create these by merging, and merging is one-way. No undo.

ALTERNATE NAME

one item only

■ Add the name people actually say that isn't in the title.

■ Add the old name whenever you rename something.

■ Worth doing on anything members ask for by nickname.

GOOD LOOKS LIKE

"the TIM letter" → Ep 52 - Ben explains the TIM letter

"red carpet script" → a formally-titled script

WATCH

If the name would suit five resources, it's a topic — not an alternate name.

CATEGORY

exactly 1 per topic

■ The category goes on the topic, never on the resource.

■ Set it the moment you create the topic.

■ Four, fixed: Marketing & sales · Systems & operations · Hiring & team · Mindset & leadership.

GOOD LOOKS LIKE

client events → Marketing & sales

client onboarding → Systems & operations

WATCH

A topic that needs two categories is two topics. Use the No category filter to catch misses.

THE SWITCHES

4 questions

SWITCH

TURN ON WHEN

Published

It's finished. Nothing works without it.

In search

Members may find it by searching.

On the homepage

You'd offer it to someone not looking. Gates browse and algorithmic recommendations.

Standalone use

It makes sense outside its lesson.

WATCH

Coach-selected suggestions are the exception: a published, safely openable coach pick may appear without homepage approval.

DESCRIPTION

256 of 258 empty

■ Write it for the person deciding whether to open the thing.

■ Say what they'll get and who it's for.

■ Don't write it for search — it barely moves ranking.

GOOD LOOKS LIKE

"A one-page script for the first ninety seconds of a listing appointment. Use it before your first walk-through."

WATCH

Don't rewrite titles to game search. Accurate title + alternate names + topics do the job together.

KEEP THIS IN MIND - An untagged guide means no recommendations for any member attached to it, however well the resources are tagged. - Approve a spread of formats. There are 126 podcasts against 104 videos and PDFs.	- A topic used once recommends nothing. The match needs a guide and a resource to share it. - Tag resources kept with their lesson anyway — it's how the lesson becomes findable.	- Under four algorithmic results and that slice stays hidden. A coach pick may still appear. - For long episode titles, topics are the only way a member finds it.
